Simon Cowell is a name that millions around the globe are familiar with, and this is thanks to his time on the small screen. During an era when American Idol, The Bachelor, and Survivor took over reality television, Simon Cowell rose above the pack and became a popular figure in a hurry.

Over time, Cowell has been able to amass a monster fortune, and he has spent millions on cars and houses. With a seemingly endless amount of money, he can basically do whatever he wants. Turns out, he wanted a house in Malibu, and he paid a pretty penny for his new spot.

Let's hop inside and take a look at Simon Cowell's $24 million mansion!

The Pool Area Is Divine

Because Simon Cowell is someone who has been a prominent figure on television for longer than most people even realize, it makes sense that he has accumulated an exceptional amount of wealth. Clearly, he has a taste for the finer things in life, as he was willing to drop roughly $24 million on a beautiful home in Malibu.

For those that have never been there, Malibu, California is easily one of the most beautiful places on the planet, and the people that are able to own properties in the city know a thing or two about luxury. This, of course, stems from the fact that Malibu is ridiculously expensive.

The beautiful spot that Simon Cowell was able to land for himself is one of many homes that he owns, and this one has a ton of style to it. According to reports, the house has six bedrooms seven bathrooms and a 1.63 acre garden, which must make relaxing a whole lot easier for the small screen icon.

The pool area that Cowell now owns is one that looks as comfortable and accommodating as any we have seen. There are plenty of chairs around the pool for a relaxing, and given that he lives in Malibu, he also has the luxury of being able to head out to the beautiful coast whenever he feels like it.

Don't worry, there is plenty more to talk about with this beautiful home, and by the time you get to reading about it and seeing pictures, we guarantee Malibu will become a bucket list destination.

Money Buys Comfort

A person as busy as Simon Cowell is going to want to make sure that their home is as cozy and comfortable as possible, even if it does have an exceptional amount of space to it. So, it should come as no surprise to see that the interior of his house looks like a place where a person could really curl up and take a cat nap anytime.

According to Observer, “Numerous pocket doors create an airy, indoor-outdoor floor plan for the 10,000-square-foot house, with plenty of room for entertaining, especially on the various stone patios.”

It’s clear that Cowell has a specific type of house that he appreciates, and because Malibu has such incredible weather, it makes sense that he would want to let in as much fresh air as possible. While the vast majority of us will never get the chance to even rent out a room from some place this nice, it is pretty cool to see that there are some people who will get to enjoy the finer things.

10,000 square feet is a whole lot of room to work with on the inside, but despite how big it is, Cowell has actually secured a spot that feels as cozy as any other place on the market.

A Cozy Mansion

Many celebrities spend an outrageous amount of money on massive houses that they hardly use, and while Simon Cowell does have a lot of space available in his house, the interior shots make the place feel nice and cozy.

One of the things that certainly helps is the actual location of the house itself, which comes with a view that any person would be lucky to have.

According to Observer, “The “resort-like” house is perched on a private bluff at the end of a gated driveway, per the $26.995 million listing shared by Newmark Residential brokers Steven Schaefer and Jay Luchs, with details such as stone floors, dark wood and hand-finished Venetian plaster walls.”

Imagine owning a home that actually makes you feel like you’re on a vacation getaway at all times. It goes without saying that Simon Cowell has spent his massive fortune wisely, and should this house ever reappear on the market, people are going to jump at the opportunity to make it their own.
